

AskAnyDifference.com

We help you with differences and comparisons of terms, products, and services.

Difference Between Investing and Speculating

1. Both of these operations aim to gain returns or profits in the future. The main difference between Investment and Speculation is the level of risk undertaken in transactions or investments and time horizon.
2. The period of investment is long term as compared to the short term time horizon of speculation.
3. The level of risk is low in investment but in speculation, the risk of loss is far higher.
4. The investment strategy depends on market research and market analysis on the other hand speculation depends on market fluctuations, market tips, and market news, and gut instincts of speculators.
5. In investing the expectation of profits is modest and continuous with very low probability risk. But in speculation, the expectation of profits and the level of risk are far higher than investing.

Source and more details: <https://askanydifference.com/difference-between-investing-and-speculating/>

AskAnyDifference.com

We help you with differences and comparisons of terms, products, and services.