

AskAnyDifference.com

We help you with differences and comparisons of terms, products, and services.

Difference Between Public Sector and Public Limited Company

1. Public sector company is controlled by the government with a limited number of shareholders, whereas the public limited company is independent private with a large number of shareholders.
2. A public sector company is not listed in the share market, but a public limited company is listed in the share market as well as requires an IPO.
3. Public sector companies mainly think of customer welfare and less about financial profit. The public limited company thinks more about profit, share, and less about public welfare.
4. Public sector company is a large business that is handled with proper guidance ministries and parliament but, a Public limited company is a small business that is controlled by the director and follows the rule of liability.
5. Ownership can never be taken in public sector companies. Public limited has the fear of losing ownership by the process of a takeover bid in the stock exchange market.

AskAnyDifference.com

We help you with differences and comparisons of terms, products, and services.

Source and more details: <https://askanydifference.com/difference-between-public-sector-and-public-limited-company/>