

We help you with differences and comparisons of terms, products, and services.

Difference Between Rural and Urban

Occupation Mobility

There are many occupations in the city. As such, there is occupation mobility in urban areas is continuous. In rural areas, the scope for occupational mobility is very low.

General Life

In urban areas life is complex and lots of activities have to be done. It is also not simple. In rural areas, life is very simple. It is reflected in the way people live, dress, shelter, and many other things.

Social Status

People in urban areas do not enjoy the same social status. They belong to different social class, religion and their cultures are different. In rural areas, people within the community are similar.

They, therefore, enjoy the same (less or more) social status.

Hold of the family

In urban areas, the hold of the family isn't compact. Institutions and other organizations have taken away the many functions of the family. In rural areas, the family hold is very strong because the family is in control of almost everything.

AskAnyDifference.com

We help you with differences and comparisons of terms, products, and services.

Life

In rural areas, there is no need for social adaptability because life isn't fast. In urban areas, life is changing very fast. As such, there is a need for fast mobility and adaptability.

Division of labor

In rural settings, there is no division of labor. In urban settings, there is a division of labor and specialization in job distribution.

Culture

Culture is deeply rooted and respected in rural areas. Almost everyone loves culture and cultural heritage than anything else. In urban cities, it is very difficult to find a pure culture. There is a mix of races and each with their own culture and taboos.

Employment

Urban centers provide employment and incentives. It is one reason that has stimulated rural-urban migration. In rural areas, there are zero chances of providing employment and incentives.

Source and more details: <https://askanydifference.com/difference-between-rural-and-urban/>